desire to give you fully to God and give thanks to God for the privilege of caring for you.

I want you to be nurtured in all that is pure, lovely and honest and to this end promise to keep from you as far as possible, everything which is likely to harm you in body, mind or spirit.

I promise to progressively teach you the truths of the gospel, to encourage you to seek Christ as your Saviour and to support you in the commitment of your life to the service of God.

I undertake to be an example of true Christian living.

I pray that God will bless and keep you throughout your whole life.

I pray that your love will overflow more and more, and that you will keep on growing in knowledge and understanding. For I want you to understand what really matters, so that you may live pure and blameless lives until the day of Christ's return. Philippians 1:9-10
